Cost Crisis in
This Inflationary Day

The newspaper being a private business house it is entitled occasionally to publish an editorial on its own affairs.

We have talked about the fantastic rise in the price of newsprint—the coarse white paper on which newspapers are printed; we took a $7 a ton increase April 1, boosting the Hope-delivered carload price from $151 to $158 per ton, and have just received a car at the $158 price. Canadian and American mills more recently announced an additional increase of $8 a ton, which would make the Hope price $166 a ton. This latest increase was to have been effective Nov. 1, but telephone conversation indicates the effective date may be delayed until Jan. 1. But the eventual increase is certain.

There is another and equally serious problem facing America's newspapers—the problem of a drastic hike in second-class postage charges. The current issue of Arkansas Publisher, house organ of the Arkansas Press Association, carries an editorial statement from a famous out-of-state small-city daily which tells the story most graphically. Here it is:

POSTAL RATES
PERIL FREE PRESS
From the Worthington
(Minn.) Daily Globe

The country has guarantees of a free press written into its federal constitution but subscription rates for the nation's handful of newspapers and magazines range from $40 to more than $100 per year and only the well-to-do have regular access to information on national and world affairs. The people are largely ignorant of their government and society.

Those sentences might be guessed a description lifted from an account in an American magazine or newspaper on life in one of the world's totalitarian states of underdeveloped nations. They are not. They are a projection based on present realities of things pending in the United States.

Some readers of these columns are familiar with the quite extraordinary editorial which appears in the current (August 20) issue of Life magazine. The editorial discusses the proposed postal rates now confronting the nation's publishing industry, rates which would boost the mail obligation of Time Inc. by 176 per cent. The editorial states in part:

"Meanwhile, there's nothing at all questionable about the potentially ruinous effect of the proposed increase on publishers. Last year, the pretax earnings of all magazines were probably about $50 million, and earnings have declined sharply in recent years because of rising costs and heavy competition from television for advertising revenues. If the proposed increase were adopted, magazines would have to find an additional $130 million to pay for mail service by 1976—more than twice their 1970 profits! For Time Inc., it's possible to be quite specific. Our four magazines earned $11 million before taxes last year; over the next five years the bill for mailing these magazines to subscribers would rise about $27 million..."

The Daily Globe can affirm that the economic threat outlined in the Life editorial is not exaggerated. Nor is Life simply crying in public over singular, private financial woes. The United States government, through the newly-established semiautonomous U.S. Postal Service, has created a situation which may quickly end the free press as Americans have known it.

This can be said to be something for publishers to worry about. It is something for the public to worry about as well; however, for it is the American public which may soon be described as "largely ignorant of their government and society."

That the cost of newspapers and magazines has become so high that most persons cannot

$15.8 Billion Tax
Cut Passes House

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House passed today a bill cutting taxes $15.8 billion over three years, sending it to the Senate for expected prompt action.

The bill's way was smoothed by an earlier Democratic retreat on the campaign-financing provision President Nixon bitterly opposes.

The House was expected to approve the compromise bill, the Senate to follow suit without delay, and Nixon to sign it.

The measure contains the basic tax benefits for business that Nixon proposed to stimulate the economy. The Democratic Congress substantially increased the tax relief for individuals, especially those in lower income brackets.

Typical savings, varying in individual cases because of the complexities of exemptions and deductions, would be on this order:

—For a single person with $3,000 income, $18 would be saved this year, $55 next; for one with $15,000, $8 and $14.

—For a married couple with two children and $4,000 income, $17 this year, $28 next; for such a family with $15,000 income, $22 this year, $44 next.

In general, persons at or below the poverty level would be relieved of all income tax—now paid by some 2.8 million in this bracket.

And price hikes are coming. A succession of mail rate increases for American publications averaging 142 per cent through the next five years are scheduled. Unless the Postal Rate Commission amends some basic decisions, by 1978 there will be (a) still fewer magazines and newspapers across the nation and (b) steeply advanced prices on the remaining publications.

The American public will be more ignorant, more susceptible to tyranny and demagoguery, confined to relative handful of views and opinions on current topics and more dependent than ever on the broadcast media. As Life stated frankly, the publication of Life, Times, Sports Illustrated and Fortune may cease.

Time Inc. is still persuaded the postal corporation which now perils its existence is good in concept. The Daily Globe does not share this persuasion. The Daily Globe sees no reason why a postal service should pay its own way or break even any more than the Department of State, the Department of Agriculture, the Department of Defense or the Department of Health Education and Welfare.

One of the reasons for creating the federal government from the beginning was to assure a national postal service which would guarantee free, easy, low-cost communication to all citizens. This concept was a cornerstone of the free press. It is nearly lost.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Porter, 308 West Avenue A, was destroyed by fire about 5:45 a.m. Thursday. A neighbor reported hearing an explosion about that time, probably gas. By the time firemen arrived the large two-story frame building was completely engulfed. Although the walls are standing in the picture the interior was badly burned and what wasn't is ruined by smoke and water. The structure was something of a landmark and was the home of the late R. R. Gillespie.

A heating unit at the home of Mrs. Hamp Huett at 404 S. Greening brought firemen to the scene about 3 p.m. Wednesday but there was no damage.

House Passes $3
Billion Fgn. Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — A drive for stop-gap extension of foreign aid into next year was in the works today with the program legally out of business since midnight and the House and Senate deadlocked over re-creating it.

By a 214-179 vote, the House passed a $3-billion foreign-aid money bill with some $400 million for Israel and almost none for India, Pakistan and Ecuador. The vote came hours before the program's present spending authority expired Wednesday night.

But Senate leaders refused to consider the money bill without a break in the deadlock over a separate bill to reauthorize foreign aid. They conferred with House leaders instead on simply extending the present program to next February or March.

Foreign-aid backers are looking for the impasse over a six-month Indochina-war deadline in the Senate foreign-aid authorization bill to be broken after President Nixon's February announcement of troop withdrawals from Vietnam and his Peking summit meeting. The peacemakers did not include Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield, author of the six-month war deadline, who opposed putting off a vote on the war halt with interim foreign-aid extension.

"I will not cave in," Mansfield said.

The 214-179 House approval of the $3-billion foreign-aid appropriation came after leaders rose one after another, appealing to the House not to kill the bill.

"We cannot just plunge out of this business," said Speaker Carl Albert.

Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford called the Indochina security aid in the bill vital to continued withdrawal of U.S. forces from the war.

The bill would withhold all but humanitarian and refugee relief to India and Pakistan until they stop fighting. And the House shouted down all $15.5 million for Ecuador because of its seizure of 52 U.S. fishing boats in the past year.

Both provide for suits by consumers wilfully charged prices higher than those approved by the Price Commission. The House version would provide higher punitive damages.

A major difference between the two versions involves the date when a pay raise for federal civilian employees and the military would take effect. Nixon postponed the raise from Jan. 1, 1972, to July 1. The Senate bill would restore the original date, at a cost estimated at $1 billion. The House version does not contain this provision.

Also omitted from the House bill is a provision written on the Senate floor exempting from price and wage controls newspapers, press associations, broadcasters and publishers of magazines and books.

Hit Orphanage

DACCA (AP) — High-altitude Indian bombers today scored a direct hit on a Dacca orphanage which housed 400 children and a staff of 100.

A stick of four bombs landed in the middle of the Moslem Mission home. Frantic rescue workers clawed into the wreckage with their hands and have so far recovered 17 bodies. Many boys were reported missing.

The children living there, 300 boys and 100 girls, were 7 to 16 years old. A staff of doctors and missionaries also lived on the premises.

The founder of the orphanage, Mohammed Rahman, who said he had been an associate of Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's grandfather in Calcutta, said the bombs landed at 3:15 a.m.

"I heard a sound and thought it was a helicopter," he said. "Then suddenly the explosions came—one, two, three, four... children were screaming. It was dark and we couldn't see them in the mud and under the wreckage."

"The girls were safe because they were in a building at the back. But many boys are missing."

"We can't have a roll call because our registers were destroyed."

Rahman, his head cut by flying debris, said at least one bomb lay unexploded in the mud.

The bombs blasted craters more than 20 feet deep and more than 20 feet wide. Bodies lay in the mud covered with bright cloth.

The orphanage is about a mile from the Dacca airport which has been under frequent Indian air attack since Saturday.

Khan Troops Dismiss Charge Virtually Cut Off

RAWALPINDI (AP) — Just one year after President Agha Mohammed Yahya Khan's military regime steered Pakistan through the first general election in its history, the Moslem nation is nearing dismemberment.

Indian troops and Bengali rebels are advancing in East Pakistan against 70,000 to 80,000 of Yahya Khan's troops who are virtually cut off from their homes in West Pakistan, 1,000 miles across hostile Indian territory.

Despite the Pakistani Air Force's claim that it is downing or damaging Indian aircraft at a 16-1 ratio compared with its own losses, Indian jets have been flying bombing missions over army headquarters in Rawalpindi daily. So far, no interceptors have risen to meet them over the city.

The war has emphasized what was always Pakistan's glaring weakness—the separation of the country's two parts. Air service between the two regions has halted; Indian fleets are enforcing a naval blockade.

The West Pakistani troops in the east have no assured route for supplies and reinforcements while the Indians flow unhindered across the borders into the area where Moslem Bengalis have been struggling for independence since late March.

The Pakistani government's nearest ally is Communist China, which was always uneasy over the prospect of the anti-Chinese East Pakistani political leader Sheikh Mujibur Rahman coming to power. With the Soviet Union India's major ally in the present crisis, the Chinese are undoubtedly alarmed at the prospect of pro-Soviet feeling in the Bangla Desh government that India is fighting to install in East Pakistan.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has decided after a five-month investigation to dismiss charges that Brig. John W. Donaldson murdered six Vietnamese civilians.

The Associated Press learned a formal announcement was due later in the day from Ft. Meade, Md., where the military equivalent of a grand jury investigation—an article 32 hearing—was conducted.

The decision completely exonerating Donaldson of all charges was made by Lt. Gen. Claire E. Hutchin Jr., commanding general of the 1st Army. Sources said Hutchin determined that evidence did not support the charges which included six counts of murder and assault against a seventh Vietnamese civilian.

Donaldson was the highest ranking officer to be accused of murdering civilians in the Vietnam war and the first U.S. general in 73 years to be charged with a war crime.

U.S. Choppers Weather Back South Vietnamese

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — U.S. helicopter gunships and South Vietnamese troops battered North Vietnamese forces in Cambodia today, and a spokesman reported 73 North Vietnamese killed and 26 weapons captured.

The spokesman, Lt. Col. Do Viet, said there were no South Vietnamese casualties.

It was the second big enemy loss in as many days claimed by the South Vietnamese north of Highway 7 in the enemy's Dam Be base camp area about 30 miles from the Vietnamese border. Another 39 North Vietnamese were reported killed Wednesday by South Vietnamese ground forces and U.S. helicopters. The South Vietnamese toll then was two killed and 28 wounded.

Col. Viet said it was the most significant action since the 25,000-man South Vietnamese force drove into eastern Cambodia on Nov. 22 to keep North Vietnamese forces away from the borders of South Vietnam.

The U.S. Command said American helicopters flew 400 missions, nearly all of them gunship, in support of the South Vietnamese forces in eastern Cambodia. But the only other battle actions reported were North Vietnamese shelling attacks on four South Vietnamese base camps and a defensive position in the area. Viet said only one of the attacks caused casualties and these were very light, with no fatalities.

Meanwhile, some 250 U.S. warplanes attacked the Ho Chi Minh trail in Laos, keeping up the strong air effort to intercept North Vietnamese war materials and reinforcements moving south to Cambodia and South Vietnam.

"With improved weather there is more truck traffic along the trail, and a strong U.S. air effort is being made to intercept and interdict the enemy," said one informant.

Scores of support planes also were in the skies over Laos, including rescue aircraft and escort fighters on the lookout for North Vietnamese MIG's.

One F105 escort fired a Shrike missile at a North Vietnamese antiaircraft radar site 15 miles north of the demilitarized zone and 15 miles east of the Laotian border. Results of the attack were not known, the U.S. Command said.

The command reported that the plane's electronic gear indicated the radar was tracking the plane.

It was the fourth such incident along the Laotian border in two days and the 88th American air attack on North Vietnam.

U.S. B52 bombers struck again in the southern half of the demilitarized zone at the junction of the borders of Laos and South Vietnam. The targets included storage areas and bunker complexes, the U.S. Command said.

Declaration at Tashkent Forgotten

By SPENCER DAVIS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Whatever happened to the Tashkent Declaration in which India and Pakistan solemnly pledged after a six-day war in 1965 to renounce use of force in settling their disputes?

The so-called "Spirit of Tashkent", bearing the name of the Soviet city where the declaration was signed on Jan. 10, 1966, had been hailed as the symbol of reconciliation between the two countries.

Observing the first anniversary of the declaration, Prime Minister Indira Gandhi of India called it a "pledge on the part of both countries to resolve their differences peacefully in an atmosphere of friendliness, cooperation and trust."

The agreement, reached after four days of talks between the leaders of India, Pakistan and the Soviet Union, was cited as a prime example of "parallelism" in which the Soviet Union and the United States helped to restore peace on the Indian subcontinent.

But now, with India and Pakistan at war again, Pakistanis say the Tashkent agreement was dealt a mortal blow by a treaty India signed last summer with the Soviet Union for consultations and support in the event of a threat to Indian security.

Indian authorities say the Tashkent Declaration died long ago because Pakistan never implemented its provisions for a ministerial meeting.

American officials say no major power is able to play a Tashkent role this time. The United States has proclaimed a noninvolvement policy toward India and Pakistan. The Soviet Union is backing India under terms of its treaty, and Communist China has promised support for Pakistan.

Britain and France abstained from even the toothless U.N. General Assembly resolution calling for a cease-fire and withdrawal of forces.

Named Honorary Prison Inmates

LANSING, Kan. (AP) — Warden R. J. Gaffney has declared members of the fourth grade class of Cure of Ars school in Leawood, Kan., "honorary inmates" of the Kansas State Penitentiary for their gift of $32.68 to the chapel fund at the institution.

Gaffney said Wednesday the nun who teaches the class heard him speak recently, and told her fourth graders about the drive for money to build an all-faith chapel inside the walls.

Britain and France abstained from even the toothless U.N. General Assembly resolution calling for a cease-fire and withdrawal of forces.

Consequently, U.S. analysts foresee the India-Pakistan war dragging on until it "runs out of gas."

These American sources have virtually written off East Pakistan and see little or no chance that it will be retained by President Agha Mohammed Yahya Khan's forces in the immediate future. But there is reluctance to recognize Bangla Desh, an independent East Pakistan, at this time.

825 Pound Wrestler Real Super Santa

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Jolly Jim Dean, an 825-pound wrestler turned Santa Claus, has converted his log cabin home into a toy factory.

With the help of neighbors, "Man Mountain" Dean is repairing cast-off toys for underprivileged children this Christmas.

"There's nothing I can't fix with nail polish, glue or a little paint," Dean declared.

His Christmas project also includes tours of hospitals, juvenile homes and other institutions as Santa Claus. It takes 15 yards of flannel to make his red suit and he cinches his 128-inch waist with an elephant's harness.

Fifteen years ago Dean packed in 150,000 sports fans a night to show off his famed airplane spin and made up to $20,000 a performance as a professional wrestler.

Now he lives in an unpretentious log cabin that was once a buffalo ranch and spends his time repairing toys. "Broken dolls, games, you name it, it's here," said the 52-year-old Dean. "Toys in the kitchen, bedroom, living room." When he dons the familiar red and white outfit to make holiday appearances, kids just know it's Kris Kringle.

"They say I've got to be the real Santa. They even lift my coat to see if it's all me," he said in a booming voice.

"Four other Santas could fit into one suit for me," he added. The most unusual Christmas request Dean has received was for a wheel chair for a child's brother.

"We got it. We begged and pleaded with merchants. And we got it," Dean said. Dean said he has always enjoyed helping needy children and since his retirement was devoted much of his time to them. He lives on income from Ocala Caverns, a tourist attraction.

In his sunshine workshop he sits on a throne—a specially made wooden chair bound in leather. Come Christmas Eve he will forego the reindeer for wheels—a car reinforced with 4-by-4s.

1½ cups Grandma's Old-Fashioned molasses
¾ cup sugar
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons cider vinegar
1 teaspoon lemon or rum flavoring

Pour into greased 15x10-inch baking pan. When mixture is cool enough to handle, pull until light in color. Roll into long rope ½-inch thick. Cut into 1-inch pieces. Wrap pieces in waxed paper or transparent plastic wrap. Makes 1 pound.

12 firm pears, peeled, cored and halved
1 orange, sliced
1 can (6 ounces) frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed, undiluted

Combine sugar, spices, vinegar and water in 8-quart bottle. Bring to boil; boil until sugar dissolves. Add pear halves, orange slices and undiluted orange juice concentrate; bring to boil. Reduce heat; simmer until crisp-tender (about 20 minutes). Spoon into hot sterilized jars immediately and seal. Store in cool, dry place. Serve as a relish with poultry, fish or meat. Rampaging Lakers Get 18th in Row

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"As we win more games, we become more confident, we work harder and hopefully play better," said Los Angeles Coach Bill Sharman. "Winning also takes pressure off the team because our position in the standings is secure."

If Sharman's philosophy is correct, the Lakers have to be supremely confident and extremely relaxed—and apparently they are.

The rampaging Lakers tied the second longest winning streak in National Basketball Association history, holding off the surprisingly stubborn Houston Rockets 125-120 Wednesday night for their 18th consecutive victory.

The triumph enabled Los Angeles to equal the 18-game winning streak compiled by the New York Knicks two seasons ago and put the Lakers within two of the NBA record of 20 set last season by Milwaukee.

The Lakers can move within one victory of tying the Bucks' mark by beating Golden State tonight at Oakland. The Warriors were the last team to beat Los Angeles, edging the Lakers 109-105 on Oct. 31.

Elsewhere in the NBA Wednesday, Boston whipped Cleveland 126-107, Philadelphia pounded Cincinnati 115-109, and Baltimore walloped Portland 115-97.

The Rockets, whose 8-22 record is the second worst in the NBA, gave Los Angeles unexpected resistance. They led 106-104 with 7:38 remaining and were not beaten until the Lakers' Jerry West hit six free throws in the final two minutes.

West finished with 33 points, tied game scoring honors with teammate Gail Goodrich, who scored 42 points.

A-State Places Two on the Little All-America Team

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN

Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Strongly underrated quarterback Gary Winder, a millionaire's son from Ohio, was named to the Associated Press Little All-America football team today along with super running backs Terry Metcalfe of Long Beach State, Bruce Laird of American International, and Garry Kahoe of Delaware's national small college champions.

Winder, who probably will be one of the top quarterbacks in the National Football League draft next Feb. 1, completed 143 of 271 passes for 2,347 yards and 23 touchdowns and scored six times himself. He was intercepted only nine times.

Metcalfe set an NCAA College Division record by scoring 29 touchdowns and has 1,673 rushing yards. He broke the Long Beach mark set in 1969 by rushing for 1,600 yards and 20 touchdowns. He also was named to the Little All-America team.

Oakland May Move to Washington

CHICAGO (AP) — Some major league baseball executives are maneuvering to help Charles O. Finley break his long-term lease on Oakland Coliseum and move his baseball and hockey teams to Washington D.C., the Chicago Sun-Times says.

The newspaper on Wednesday quoted a "highly placed National League executive" as saying that the league is anxious to relocate Oakland because "it's obvious that the Bay area can't support two major league baseball teams."

The San Francisco Examiner, meanwhile, quotes Finley as saying, "I don't want to say anything about it. I don't want to get into hot water here with the people of Oakland."

Robert T. Nahas, president of the Oakland-Alameda County Coliseum Complex Board, said that Finley has "a firm" contract to keep his Athletics at the stadium for another 16 years. He said that Finley's cause of enthusiasm, pride and dedication to hard work," said Sharman. "And also, this is one of the most intelligent group of players I've ever been associated with."

John Havlicek's 28 points, 12 in the first quarter, and Jo Jo White's 27 paced Boston's 2-1/2 games in front of the idle Knicks in the Atlantic Division.

Kevin Loughery scored 11 straight last-period points for Philadelphia, enabling the 76ers to stave off Cincinnati. Loughery wound up with 20 points, one less than teammate Bob Rule. Cincinnati's Nate Archibald was high for the game with 26 points.

Baltimore, behind Archie Clark's 30 points and 10 assists, ended a three-game losing streak in beating Portland. Rookie Sidney Wicks scored 24 points for Portland.

Average, caught 15 passes for 130 yards and returned 13 kickoffs for more than 21 yards per return.

ALC's Laird, who played both ways in the past, struck to offense this season and set a New England record of 1,400 yards. Kahoe was the No. 1 ground-gainer on the top small college rushing team, Delaware, averaging 212 yards per game.

Kahoe, accounting for 122.6, also scored 21 touchdowns.

Two members of the Little All-America backfield—Winder and Kahoe—will face each other on Saturday in the Boardwalk Bowl at Atlantic City, N.J.

Arkansas State, Grambling, Tampa and Texas A&M played two men apiece on the second team, which consists of 19 seniors and four juniors.

The rest of the offense shows ends Jerome Barnum of Jacksonville State and Eldridge Small of Texas A&M, tackles Luther Anderson of Southern Illinois and Ron Mackay of Texas A&M. Wayne Dorton of Arkansas State and Solomon Freelon of Grambling and center John Hill of Tennessee.

On-the Road Blues for SWC Cagers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Southwest Conference had a bad case of those "on-the-road" basketball blues Wednesday night.

Texas and Southern Methodist were both treated rather rudely as the SWC's record against outside foes dipped to 18-11.

Texas fell 87-60 to highly regarded Kansas State while Oklahoma City finally found a SWC team it could whip and downed the Mustangs 102-67.

It was SMU's first loss after two victories while Texas' mark dipped to 2-2.

Oklahoma City had lost to Baylor, Texas Christian and Texas on its home court before the Chiefs finally found a patsy in the Mustangs.

Texas was victimized by sophomore guard Danny Beard, who hit nine of 11 from the field and finished with 23 points.

Beard also was credited with 10 steals against the loose Longhorn offense.

In games tonight, TCU hosts Wyoming, and Rockhurst is at Arkansas.

Issel Leads All Scorers in the ABA

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

I don't think the switch to forward will make it any more difficult for me to repeat as the scoring champion if that were the objective," said Kentucky's Dan Issel.

"I'll be getting easier, wide open shots coming off Artis Gilmore's picks," he added. "But the objective is to go one game farther than last year and maybe it would be a good situation if I didn't score as much. It would mean more balanced scoring."

Issel, the leading scorer in his first ABA season last year with a 29.9 average, is scoring even more prolifically this season—and the Colonels, who missed by one game winning the league championship during the 1970-71 campaign, now have the best record in the circuit.

With Issel connecting for 41 points, about eight above his average, and Gilmore, the 7-foot-2 rookie adding 34, the Colonels beat the Carolina Cougars 121-111 Wednesday night, raising their record to 18-7, tops in the Eastern division.

Utah, the defending league champion and currently in first place in the Western Division, posted its 20th victory in 28 games, a 116-97 decision over Dallas, and Memphis trimmed Denver 109-91 in other ABA games Wednesday night.

Issel, the runner-up in scoring to Virginia's Charlie Scott, scored 27 points in the first half against Carolina and Gilmore matched that figure in the second half. George Lehmann was high for the Cougars with 26 points.

Utah's Zelmo Beaty also had a big second half, collecting 20 of his 25 points as the Stars broke a 77-77 third-quarter tie against Dallas by outscoring the Chaparrals 39-20 in the final period. Steve Jones topped Dallas with 25 points.

Memphis built a 22-point lead over Denver in the third period, then had the margin cut to five in the fourth quarter, before pulling away in the final five minutes. Rookie Johnny Neumann led Memphis' balanced offense with 18 points, one more than Wendell Ladner. Denver's Ralph Simpson scored 24 points.

Dolphins, Colts Meet to Decide AFC East Title

NEW YORK (AP) — When the Miami Dolphins meet the Baltimore Colts and the Detroit Lions face the Minnesota Vikings in Saturday's crucial National Football League games, it will be the old case of the irresistible force against the immovable object.

The Dolphins, leading the American Football Conference's Eastern Division by a half-game over the Colts with two games left, lead the AFC in rushing with 2,178 yards—nearly 300 more yards than runner-up Oakland—according to official statistics released today.

The Colts, meanwhile, have yielded only 936 yards on the ground, the lowest total in the AFC, the fewest yards passing, 1,443, the fewest total yards, 2,381—more than 600 fewer than second-place Denver—and the fewest points, 116.

On the other hand, Detroit, 11 games behind Minnesota in the National Football Conference's Central Division, has the conference's best rushing attack with 2,135 yards and leads in scoring with 204 points.

Minnesota, Central Division champion for the past three years, leads the NFC in total offense with a yield of 2,861 yards and has given up only 173 points, fewest in the conference.

Dallas, the NFC's Eastern Division leader, is tops in total offense with 4,171 yards and first in passing offense with 2,426. The AP's total yardage leader is San Diego with 4,402 yards, of which 2,644 have been through the air, also a conference leader.

Key Issue of SWC Meet Sure to Be Recruiting

DALLAS (AP) — Oklahoma visits to Texas schoolboy footballers before Southwest Conference schools can get a crack at them is likely to be one of the hotter topics discussed at the Southwest Conference winter meetings beginning today and ending Saturday.

The fact the Sooners have been camping on the high schoolers' doorsteps during football season has disturbed most SWC coaches, who feel the Sooners get an edge toward the Feb. 8 signing date. SWC schools don't start visits until the season is over.

Athletic directors and head football coaches were expected to jaw all day today on various matters. They will meet with business managers on Friday.

Baseball coaches get their say Friday with faculty representatives taking over Friday afternoon and Saturday morning. No announcement of the weighty decisions under discussion will be made until Saturday's press conference.

Other items to be discussed included: —Report of committee studying rules regarding student-athletes withdrawing from school while making passing grades.

—Consideration of ticket prices for 1972 football games.

—Consideration of proposed NCAA legislation.

—Review of methods of determining golf championships.

—Review of limits on traveling squads in cross country and tennis.

—Consideration of rule regarding transfer students who have spent 18 or more months in the armed services.

—Consideration of dates for the 1972 track and field, golf, tennis meets.

—Consideration of changing date and site of spring business meeting.

—Consideration of altering the rotation system of sites for track and field, golf, tennis meets.

Virginia in Upset of Maryland

By KEN RAPPOPORT

Associated press Sports Writer

Yes, Maryland, there is a Virginia.

The Virginia Cavaliers were bigger than life Wednesday night, burying the fifth-ranked Maryland Terrapins 78-57 in college basketball.

Leaving no doubt as to their authenticity, the Cavaliers clouted the highly-touted Terps with a 67 per cent shooting percentage that built a 13-point halftime lead.

The bruising battle of Atlantic Coast Conference clubs highlighted a busy night of basketball, although only one other ranked team was in action.

Louisville, the nation's No. 16 team, ripped Dayton 88-60 before head guard Jim Price and forward Ron Thomas.

Kansas, led by Bud Stallworth's 34 points, pounded Notre Dame 88-72; Danny Beard poured in 23 to pace Kansas State to an 87-60 success over Texas and East Carolina defeated Davidson 67-57 for the first time in its history.

How to Succeed (?) at Promoting A College Basketball Tourney

By MURRAY OLDERMAN

SAN FRANCISCO—(NEA)—There are these two guys who've been nuts about college basketball ever since they first saw it as kids in Madison Square Garden. So they're sitting around one night seven years ago and they say to themselves, "How can such pleasure be denied to the citizens of San Francisco?"

One is Harry Jupiter, then a baseball writer for the San Francisco Examiner. The other is Art Santo Domingo, who compiles statistics for the baseball Giants. Working stiffs, a couple of New York types who went west.

December of each year is the big month for college basketball tournaments, before conference schedules begin. Around the country there are maybe 50 of them, from the Rainbow Classic in Honolulu to the Hurricane Classic in Miami, Fla.

Normally, a newspaper guy like Jupiter would sit down at the typewriter and wonder, "Why doesn't somebody do this—put on a tournament in San Francisco?" And it would be filed and forgotten.

Instead, he and Santo Domingo say, "Let's do it, and call it the Cable Car Classic."

And they did. We are now coming upon the fifth annual Cable Car Classic—it took them two years to digest and refine the original idea—scheduled for the San Francisco Civic Auditorium on Dec. 10-11, headlining Frank McGuire's nationally known South Carolina team.

Here are these same two nuts—Jupiter and Santo Domingo—happier but poorer souls, and anxiously counting the house. The pleasure of letting college kids romp in shorts before the natives has put them out of pocket something like $20,000 for the past four years.

"If we sold out the next five years," says Jupiter, "we wouldn't get back the money we lost the first year." (They dropped 17 cool Gs in the 1967 debut.)

"We spent the money," he adds, "you gotta say we're crazy. And we are."

That's because they violated the first theorem of sports promotion: Spend someone else's money, preferably a rich guy's.

Ah, but there have been compensations for the soul. There was the time in the second classic when the Brigham Young University band showed up, unannounced, to serenade its team. So Jupiter ushered them in out of the cold. They not only played while BYU lost, they offered to play for the second game, too.

Harry could tell them where to go for a late snack. "We haven't eaten," said the leader, "since we left Utah."

Jupiter called up a plush restaurant which caters to the post-opera crowd and set it up for the kids. He also told the "maitre de" to put it on the Cable Car Classic tab. The kids ate $230 worth.

When his wife Lorna met him after the second game, Harry said expansively, "I just sent a band to dinner."

"You what?" exclaimed Lorna. "You didn't even buy ME dinner."

Nevertheless, says Harry, "It was one of the proudest moments of my life, like going into a bar and ordering one for everybody in the joint."

One year the two "entrapment" came within 200 bucks of breaking even. The problem is they've got a nut of $40,000—$4,000 each plus expenses for the four college teams in the two-day tournament, plus 10 per cent of the gross in rent, plus promotional costs—and an arena that seats only 6,500 souls.

But they're thinking ahead. Duke and LaSalle, perennial cage powers, join a couple of Bay area teams (the University of San Francisco is the permanent tournament host) in '72. In 1973, Maryland, with its fabulous Tom McMillen slated to be a senior, will be the star attraction.

"That," admits Jupiter, "will cost a bundle, so we may have to get a bigger place to play. I don't delude myself the thing's a success because it's still costing us money to do it."

However, you have to admire their persistence.

"We're committed," says Jupiter, who has since gone from newspaper work to do publicity for the Golden State Warriors. "There's always going to be a Cable Car Classic."

Sure, as long as their money holds out.

WHA Planning 12-Team League Next Season

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer
The fledgling World Hockey Association is stirring up a storm as it proceeds with plans to operate a 12-team league next season.

There was a report Wednesday that WHA officials had approached four members of the Minnesota North Stars of the National Hockey League about the possibility of moving to the new league's St. Paul club next year. The four were Bill Goldsworthy, Jude Drouin, Cesare Maninago and Barry Gibbs.

"It doesn't cost a dime to listen," Goldsworthy, one of Minnesota's top scorers, reportedly said. "If the money is right, and if I could get a three-of-four-year contract with the money in escrow, why not?"

Drouin was quoted as saying, "If that's where the money is, I'll go."

The president of the St. Paul franchise of the WHA said his club has not contacted North Star players.

"I think a lot of National Hockey League players are going to claim they've been approached," Jim Adams said, "just to help their own bargaining power with their clubs. If we've talked to four North Stars, it's news to me."

Meanwhile, a reported $1 million WHA offer to Chicago superstar Bobby Hull was being denied.

"Somebody has been having pipe dreams," said Hull commenting on the alleged offer. "I don't know anything about it and I've never been approached."

Ben Hatskin, owner of the WHA's Winnipeg franchise, who had reportedly made the fat offer to Hull, explained what had happened.

"What I said," said Hatskin, "was that I would give a million dollars to have Hull, but I have not made any direct offer to him or talked to him about any deal."

Hatskin also denied that the WHA had held a secret draft with each club selecting four NHL players.

"What we all did was make a list of players we would like to have, but it wasn't a draft or anything like it. And I won't tell you if Hull was on my list. That stuff isn't for publication."

Another rumored WHA offer, this one to Boston's Derek Sanderson, was also denied Wednesday. Bob Woolf, Sanderson's attorney who also represents many other NHL players, explained the background of the story.

"A man from the WHA, Herb Martin of Miami, phoned me the other day to talk about Derek and mentioned that figure $250,000," Woolf said.

"I mentioned it to Derek and I guess he mentioned it to some newspapermen, and now the whole thing has been blown out of proportion."

"But no offers were made and no agreements entered into," Woolf said.

The attorney said that the would meet in Boston with WHA representatives on Dec. 18.

"Martin and some other WHA people are coming to Boston Dec. 18 to talk to me, and I owe it to all my clients to listen to them."

Canadiens Trail NY by One Point in NHL East

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Montreal defenseman J.C. Tremblay and Pierre Bouchard played their own game of Can You Top This Wednesday night with Tremblay and the Canadiens coming out on top.

Tremblay fired his first two goals of the National Hockey League season and Bouchard notched his first big league goal ever helping Montreal to a 4-2 decision over Detroit that left the Canadiens a slim one point behind New York in the NHL's East Division.

The Rangers bounced from behind to tie Chicago 2-2 as the Black Hawks stretched their home ice unbeaten streak to 12 games and sliced Minnesota's West Division lead to two points. Toronto topped the North Stars 3-1. In other games, Pittsburgh tied California 1-1 and Boston turned back Los Angeles 5-3.

"I hadn't been too worried about scoring," said Tremblay, "but I'm glad I finally got those goals. Now I'm going to enjoy the steak that Pierre Bouchard is treating the team to after getting his first NHL goal."

Tremblay's first goal started Montreal's scoring and then Bouchard, son of former Montreal defenseman Butch Bouchard, scored his first NHL goal.

"The puck came to me off the boards," said young Bouchard. "I had plenty of time to take the shot and though I backhanded it, I had quite a lot behind it."

That made it Tremblay's turn again after the Red Wings had bounced back to tie the score on quick goals by Red Berenson and Doug Volmar. J. C. connected again for the deciding goal and then Pete Mahovich added an insurance tally with less than six minutes remaining.

The Rangers tied Chicago on Vic Hadfield's 20th goal of the season just over one minute after Pit Martin had given the Black Hawks the lead.

New York's Rod Gilbert and Bobby Hull of Chicago had swapped goals in the first two periods. The tie left Chicago with 22 of a possible 24 points at home this season.

Minnesota bowed to Toronto with Darryl Sittler, Norm Ullman and Jim Harrison scoring the Leaf goals and Bill Goldsworthy accounting for the North Stars' only tally.

Sittler connected in the first period and Ullman in the second. Then Goldsworthy sliced the Leaf lead in half midway through the third before Harrison scored Toronto's wrapup goal.

Pittsburgh moved past idle St. Louis into third place in the West by tying California. Bobby Leiter's goal late in the second period earned the deadlock for the penguins. Dick Redmond hit for the Seals.

The Bruins rallied with three goals in the final three minutes of play to remain unbeaten in their last 11 outings while the Kings lost their sixth in a row. Wayne Cashman snapped a 2-2 tie with his eighth tally of the season followed by goals by Dallas Smith and Fred Stanfield.

How the Raiders Survived Injury Plague

THE OAKLAND RAIDERS, decimated by injuries, have nevertheless been able to keep up with pro football's top teams by reaching into a talent pool that has provided a series of more than capable replacements, including, from left, defensive end Harold Rice (from taxi squad), defensive tackle Art Thoms (from taxi squad), running back Don Highsmith (from bench) and receiver Drew Bile (from bench).

By MURRAY OLDERMAN

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif.—(NEA)—A couple of years ago, the irrepressible Joe Knapp, now an unemployed quarterback, coined the phrase "40 for 60" to describe his formula for winning football. Deciphered, it means that the full complement of 40 men on a professional team going all out for 60 minutes contributes to a championship effort and was his way of paying tribute to his then teammates on the Minnesota Vikings.

Squad depth has become the all important ingredient in this time of escalating injuries, the physical drag of a long season and increasing emphasis on special teams.

The Oakland Raiders, in a two-way drive for the Western Division title of the American Football Conference and with the best winning record of any team in professional football for the last five years, are the perfect example of using personnel depth to maintain a winning tempo.

The New York Jets have been clucked over this year as the injury-stricken victims of misfortune. And it's true they lost a bundle of talent, such as Joe Namath, John Elliott, et al. But in sheer numbers, no team has seen its lineup suffer greater losses than the Raiders, with lesser effect.

Of the 11-man starting offensive unit projected for the 1971 season, five are missing from their usual spots. The running back tandem of Hewitt Dixon (third leading rusher in the AFC in '70) and Charley Smith was completely wiped out, with Smith now back on the roster but not playing. A bad back found guard Jim Harvey displaced by George Buehler. All-pro tackle Bob Brown went out with knee surgery, replaced by another all-pro type, Ron Mix. Warren Wells, one of the elite wide receivers of football, went to prison, giving Rod Sherman a chance to play. And when Sherman was hurt, young Drew Bile came along to take over.

In the backfield, Marv Hubbard picked up the slack for Dixon at fullback, and when Marv started hobbling on a bad ankle, Don Highsmith stepped out as a rushing threat. Pete Banaszak, a veteran plugger, and Clarence Davis, an exciting rookie, compensated for Smith at halfback.

On the defensive front four, all-league tackle Tom Keating was sidelined by a broken leg; his replacement, Carleton Oats, was lost with a knee injury; and the starting end, Tony Cline, missed the first part of the season with a bad leg. Yet the Raiders came up with people like Horace Jones, a 12th round draft choice, and Harold Rice, a taxi squadder from last year, to sustain the pass rush.

The defense, in fact, was rebuilt this year with three starting rookies in Jones, linebacker Phil Villapiano (who got his chance when Duane Benson had a pulled muscle) and free safety Jack Tatum, plus a starting tackle, Art Thoms, who (taxied part of last season. When Gus Otto, a smart, tough linebacker, was also hurt, Benson was then available to fill in.

At one time in mid-season the Raiders' "move" or reserve list consisted of Dixon, Bob Brown, Gus Otto, Keating, linebacker Bill Envart, touted rookie lineman Warren Koegel and slick wide receiver Eldridge Dickey—all superb, coveted talents.

The whole point of this is that when one of the superstar types gets hurt, the Raiders, instead of turning lachrymose, reach into their grab bag of squad depth and come up with someone just as or almost as good.

Credit obviously goes to a scouting staff headed by Ron Wolf, which doesn't hook into one of those complex talent cooperatives that have been the recent vogue in pro football and yet has dredged up a draft list which placed half a dozen useful rookies on the current roster.

It goes just as much, however, to an organizational concept that everyone on a 40-man roster must be ready to do more than just stand straight for the national anthem. Even George Blanda, at 44, is ready and anxious to take his stand in the face of a blitz. All miracles are welcomed.

Opposes One-Day Wants Control Boards Prison Term for Closer Together Young Offenders

By MICHAEL J. REILLY

Associated Press Writer

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Dr. Richard E. Walters, the state commissioner of juvenile services, said Wednesday he opposed the practice of sending youthful offenders to the state prisons for a day to frighten them away from a life of crime.

Walters, a psychiatrist who was named head of the state's juvenile correction programs this summer, wrote a letter to the state's judges and prosecuting attorneys Wednesday asking them to send youngsters under 18 to his agency rather than sentencing them to a day in the state prisons.

Walters said he wrote the letter as a result of the death last week of Willie Stewart, 17, of Little Rock at Cummins Prison Farm after witnesses said he was subjected to a day of hazing by prison guards and trustees. Authorities said the youth died of a blood disorder.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A joint committee will assume the task of bringing the Pay Board and the Construction Industry Stabilization Committee closer together in wage-control policies.

The development comes a week after the Pay Board took away from the committee the power to grant retroactive wage increases. Members of the board were reported upset at a large number of big pay increases and retroactive wage agreements approved by the committee despite the administration's avowed 5.5-per-cent limit on yearly wage boosts.

"Both parties agreed on the importance of Pay Board wage controls as a means of controlling inflation," said Pay Board Chairman George H. Boldt after meeting Wednesday with a delegation from the committee.

"The CISC indicated a willingness to continue to work within the framework of the Pay Board policies and to administer those policies."

The board and committee agreed to set up a subcommittee consisting of three members of each panel, to work out details of governing construction-industry wage pacts.

In Detroit, Henry Ford II said that if effective Phase 2 policies are carried out, he believes "the present slow recovery from the 1969-70 recession will build to a faster pace in 1972."

In his year-end statement, Ford, chairman of Ford Motor Co. said there is a danger the economic program "will do little to limit underlying cost pressures."

"If these pressures are not contained, either inflation control will turn out to be short-lived or profits will be severely restricted," Ford said.

In Los Angeles, a member of the Pay Board, economist Neil Jacoby of UCLA, said prospects of reaching the administration goal of 2-or 3-per-cent rate of inflation are fairly good. But he said this would only occur with firm control by the Pay Board, "noninflationary monetary and fiscal policies by the Federal Reserve authorities, the Congress and the administration."

Jacoby said he believes the recent 12-per-cent first-year wage increase in a new contract for North-American Rockwell workers probably won't be approved.

Jacoby, one of five public members of the Pay Board, said the big 16.8-per-cent agreement approved for soft-coal workers was highly inflationary and appeared to have been made with the idea of achieving "peace at any price."

The North American pact, signed Monday, is viewed as the pacesetter for the broad aerospace field.

Continuing its string of price announcements, the Price Commission said Wednesday it had approved two requests for price increases, bringing the total to 194. Sixty-four new applications were received from 39 companies, making the total of applications 683 from 529 companies.

Finish Audit of Sheriff's Books

CAMDEN Ark. AP—Ouachita County Judge Alfred Stunnett says an audit of the books of former Sheriff Grover Linebarger will be presented Friday to the Legislative Joint Auditing Committee.

Auditors completed their final report Tuesday. Stunnett refused to comment on the report.

An investigation was begun last summer when Stunnett requested an audit of Linebarger's books. The audit was begun after state auditors were reportedly unable to account for more than $20,000 in fees allegedly paid to the collector's office.

Deputy Prosec. Atty. Harry Barnes said Tuesday he felt sure a grand jury would be called this season to investigate the matter.

Cooks Better Than Her Mother So She Gets the Job for Family

By JOY STILLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — What can you say about a 20-year-old girl who is a far more accomplished cook than her mother? You can say "hooray" and turn over to her the mixing spoons, apron and keys to the pantry.

In addition to acquiring a knowledge of history, psychology and French at college, our daughter has learned everything she always wanted to know about cooking but was afraid to ask.

Since I myself didn't become acquainted with the facts of kitchen life until after I was married and the little I know I picked up in supermarkets and on park benches, I admit to being both uninformed and uptight on the subject.

But from the time Gay first noticed there were two kinds of cake—bakery and homemade—I've tried to answer her questions honestly and keep the lines of communication open.

Being admittedly inhibited in the baking department, I may have looked a bit embarrassed the first time she asked me why I couldn't produce a coconut cream pie like Joan's mother down the block, but I didn't register shock when she asked me what made a soufflé different from a casserole, and I didn't blush at all when she demanded to know where little cupcakes come from.

It wasn't until her junior year in college, when she had moved out of her dorm and was sharing an apartment with two other girls, that we realized she was reading cookbooks as well as schoolbooks.

On one of her visits home she offered to make Swedish pancakes with whipped lime butter. Since I cook from a freezer rather than from a cabinet, this necessitated the purchase of all kinds of raw materials, including flour.

Her efforts met with such enthusiastic response that the next trip she proceeded to make bread—the real thing.

Only 4 U.S. Troops Killed During Week

SAIGON (AP) — American casualties in the Vietnam war last week were the second lowest since the U.S. Command started keeping weekly totals nearly seven years ago, the command announced today.

Headquarters said four Americans were killed in combat and 14 were wounded.

Another 11 men died from nonhostile causes, the command said. This total presumably did not include any of the 34 men who died in a helicopter crash Nov. 28. Their bodies were not recovered until this week, and until then they were listed as missing in action.

The South Vietnamese Command reported 314 men killed in action, 125 less than the week before, and 630 wounded.

Punchy Jackets Not for Heavy Women

By ANN HENCKEN
AP Fashion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Skinny women should feel full of ginger in Scott Barrie's short, punchy jackets over slacks for spring.

But heavier women would feel like muffin creatures in them. The skinnies will be high-stepping and proud in his backless halter blouses, dolman sleeve tops and his black peddle pusher outfits shown Wednesday. They may snap up the open-crown hats and high wedges worn with the outfits.

The broad-beamed will avoid the jackets with three-quarter length sleeves, puffed up like cotton candy. They'll avoid the high, bound waistlines with pants.

The short jacket looks good but it gives wide women no disguise when it's worn with slacks. There they are, with no length of sweater to pull over the hips. For the high waisted, there's no low slung belt to break the long line from waist to thigh.

The hippy would be happier with Barrie's long, butter yellow off-the-shoulder evening dress with raised hem line in front. They may like his long white lace dresses with wrapped waists.

Or if they must have a short jacket, perhaps his three-piece grey slacks suit with grey vest and white shirt.

They could take a chance with his gambling print dresses, sporting big dice. They might try his strapless floral print dresses with pull-on elasticized sleeves.

Ban the Beauty Contests?

DEAR HELEN AND SUE: The Student Affairs Committee of our College has voted to withdraw student support from Future Homecoming Queen and other festival queen contests. They are traditions in our town and I am sure that most of the college students still want these contests to continue.

However, the Women's Liberation group of about 400 persuaded the committee that campus queen contests are "meat shows" and morally degrading to women.

Seems to me this should be up to the majority of students on campus, not a small Student Affairs Committee. Yes, members are elected by "popular vote," but very few people bother to vote—perhaps one-tenth of all registered students. Therefore they don't represent us.

As for so-called beauty contests being "degrading," why is it bad to award girls for popularity? After all awards are made in other fields—scholastic, athletic, scientific.

Do you, Helen and Sue, consider that queen or beauty contests put down women? —COLLEGE STUDENT

DEAR STUDENT: Let's put it this way: Many professions which draw women (and men too) require attractiveness, outgoing personalities, the "cool" that comes from public appearances. Many beauty queens, actually, they're popularity queens, have gone on to careers in acting, advertising, modeling and maybe these can be put down as "meat show" jobs but the pay is great, they require brains as well as looks, and they offer self-esteem, which is what Women's Liberationists push hardest, right?

We think queen contests are pleasant traditions for high schools and colleges. If they are to be eliminated, then it should be by popular vote, not by edict of the Student Council. True, they don't generate wild enthusiasm as they did in past years (nor do national or worldwide "beauty" contests), but they're still a welcome change from all that "life is real life is earnest" tension that envelops campuses these days.

Okay, Liberationists, strike us dead! —HELEN AND SUE
NOTE FROM HELEN: Occurs to me that if only one-tenth of all registered students bother to vote in campus elections, then the others haven't much cause for complaint on how student affairs are run. They've already defaulted.

NOTE FROM SUE: Why doesn't "Lib" concentrate on IMPORTANT issues, and leave queen contests to those who enjoy them?
DEAR RAP:

This is for "A Friend of the Fair Sex" who implied that women's dress and actions invite rape, etc.

I had to reread the date in the paper. I couldn't believe that letter. It sounded like "Friend just stepped out of the 1960s."

This is 1971. Sweetie, smarten up! If every girl who wore hot pants got raped, I'd start feeling sorry for the rapists.

No one "invades" bars any more. That's left to John Wayne and old westerns. People walk right up civilly leaving their harpoons at the side of course, and girls aren't making it if when they stop for a drink.

As for bringing crime under control by dress regulations, and making bars difficult to females, girls got raped when they wore ten crinolines and two corsets. It just took a little longer that's all. On the other hand, Eve had no trouble and she wore a fig leaf.

People belong only where they want to belong. If they want to stay at home, that's cool, but I'm not the cookie-cutter little homebody that "Friend" seems to want all women to be. Actually, I'm 15, so I can't go into bars yet, but I defend the right of older girls to go as they please. —NOT A CHINA DOLL

Senate Votes Midwest Goes 100 Per Cent Friday on Rehnquist

By JOHN CHADWICK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate will vote Friday on a Republican-initiated move to cut off debate on the Supreme Court nomination of William H. Rehnquist and force a vote on his confirmation.

President Nixon's nomination of Rehnquist, an assistant attorney general, has been before the Senate since the confirmation Monday of Richmond attorney Lewis F. Powell Jr. for another vacancy on the Supreme Court.

Republican Leader Hugh Scott, who has accused Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., of leading a filibuster against Rehnquist's confirmation, filed a petition late Wednesday to invoke the Senate's debate-closing rule.

If the required two-thirds majority puts the rule into effect, it could open the way for a vote on Rehnquist's confirmation late Friday.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said he will vote against the cutoff petition.

The petition was signed by 27 senators, all Republicans except for Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., of the Senate Judiciary Committee, and Sen. Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C.

Scott and Mansfield have assured Nixon a vote on confirming Rehnquist will be taken before Congress adjourns. Scott says the vote is the only roadblock to adjournment, scheduled this week.

Bayh has denied filibustering. He maintains that opponents of Rehnquist's nomination should have an opportunity to lay their case before the Senate before a vote is taken on confirmation of the former Phoenix, Ariz., lawyer.

Bayh and other opponents contend Rehnquist has not demonstrated a commitment to civil rights and civil liberties, but they concede they don't have the votes to block confirmation.

Scott has said he knows of 73 solid votes for confirmation.

Stock Advisor Sends Forecast of Coming Year

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Wall Street thrives on opinions, often valuing them more than facts. It's own opinion of itself, the public's opinion about business, business' opinion of the future.

Following are reports on each:
Gerald M. Loeb, one of the grand old men of the securities business, author of two investment classics, "The Battle for Investment Survival" and "The Battle For Stock Market Profits," broker, investor, wit, is also a man of strong opinions.

For years he has been giving advice and a lot of people have profited by it. But day in and day out the advice business sometimes is trying. When you are uncertain you cannot admit to confusion, but sometimes your forecasts are so obviously hedged that they give you away.

"We're all guilty of it," says Loeb. "Anybody who gives advice knows how difficult it is to give good advice regularly—and to accept it."

This holiday season Loeb has decided to send a greeting card that, well, sort of looks into next year. It's theme is a Zodiac containing advice for all investors.

It begins with a general greeting. "A Good And Adverse Year" it says in language as straightforward as that sometimes used by astrologers and investment advisers.

"I do not believe in astrology," Loeb says, but confesses, "one wonders if it can be any worse than the boondoggling that goes on in Wall Street. The gobbledygook of market advisers seems no different from those of the astrologer."

For those born under the sign of Taurus he advises that "Dialing a wrong number when calling your broker is desirable." And for Aries: "Investment decisions made while in the shower can bring possible profit."

Aquarians are informed that "Discussions can be enlightening if ignored." Scorpions are told that "Buying in the

No Toll Fee for Car-Poolers May Ease Rush Hour

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Toll-free passage for car-poolers may be the answer to easing traffic congestion during the commuter rush hour, say San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge officials after the first day of the experiment.

Cars with three or more persons in them were channeled into two special lanes Wednesday and did not have to pay the usual 50-cent toll for westward crossing to San Francisco. Eastbound traffic to Oakland already is toll-free.

"It worked very well, a lot better than we expected, with no major problems," said a bridge official.

While there were fewer car pools than expected, he said, the average westbound traffic of 23,000 cars between 6 and 9 a.m. was down to 22,455 as some 1,262 car pools were logged through the toll gates.

Even so, there was some congestion due to the change in traffic pattern, he said. The experiment of letting car pools travel without paying was conceived as a way of relieving traffic congestion during the commuter rush hours.

a.m. can be unlucky, in the p.m. downright dangerous." Capricorns: "Cancel any orders now. This can be helpful."

Loeb sort of doodled his idea onto paper during some lulls at the San Francisco office of E.F. Hutton, where he works after having officially retired sometime in the dim past.

"I showed the idea to my wife and she thought it was funny and so I thought others would see something in it. You don't think it will offend anyone, do you?"

"Most people will understand the intention is humorous," he was told. But as an afterthought the listener recalled a memorable line from a freshman psychology teacher: "As a man doodles, so he thinks."

The public's view of business, which generally is reflected in Wall Street, is shown in a survey that The Wellington Management Company conducted among its mutual fund shareholders.

Among other questions, they were asked their opinion on the following:
"I would be interested in purchasing shares of a mutual fund investing only in corporations that contribute to society beyond the traditional goal of maximum profit."

If you think in this age of growing social consciousness that investors wish to express themselves through stocks you may be shocked. It's an old story—a matter of putting the money where the mouth is.

Only 8.5 per cent checked the line that read "strongly agree."

Another 19.9 per cent said they generally agree, 21.6 put themselves in the "not sure" category, 31.1 said they generally disagreed and 18.9 said they strongly disagreed.

And finally, the third ingredient in the opinion market—what business thinks of the future. It's really hard to say. Wall Street reports that businessmen are talking a lot of gobbledygook.

Cotton Crop Is Estimated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department estimated Wednesday that Arkansas would produce 1.2 million bales of cotton during 1971 with an average yield of 507 pounds per acre.

The agency estimated the 1971 cotton crop at 10,557,400, down 2 per cent from the November forecast but still 4 per cent larger than last year.

The delta states of Mississippi, Louisiana, Tennessee, Arkansas and Missouri expected to produce 4,345,000 bales, up 125,000 bales from November.

24 Arrested in W. Memphis Drug Raid

WEST MEMPHIS, Ark. (AP) — Twenty-four persons were arrested early today in a massive drug raid in Crittenden County. Officials said more arrests were expected.

Asst. Police Chief Bobby Keen of West Memphis made the announcement at a news conference with Mayor Tilden Rogers and City Atty. R. E. Wallin.

Keen said some of those arrested had been charged with a felony, sale of narcotics, and others with a misdemeanor, illegal possession of narcotics.

Officials said those arrested were between the ages of 16 and 23. About a half-dozen were females. Wallin said the arrests were about evenly distributed between alleged sellers and alleged users.

Authorities said no name was released and no information revealed concerning the confiscation of drugs "because additional arrests are anticipated."

The raids began at 1:30 a.m. today. Officers said the 24th arrest was made shortly before 9 a.m. The raids followed a six-hour hearing before West Memphis Municipal Court Judge Lindsey Fairley Tuesday night to determine whether there was probable cause for the arrests.

Officers said the bonds ranged from about $1,000 to $30,000. Rogers said in a prepared statement that for the past several months, West Memphis had undertaken a program designed to eliminate the sale and use of narcotics in the area.

"We feel that the results of this program have justified the fact that we made no previous disclosure that such an investigation has been in progress for a considerable time even though some residents expressed concern that we are not pursuing any measures to combat this problem," Rogers said in a prepared statement.

Rogers said officials felt that disclosure of the program would "greatly handicap" efforts to locate the "sources" of the problem.

WILL VISIT POLAND
MUNICH (AP) — Julius Cardinal Doepfner, archbishop of Munich and Freising, has accepted an invitation to visit Poland sometime in 1972.

The Cardinal, chairman of the German Bishops Conference, was invited by the Polish bishops at the Rome ceremony in which Pope Paul VI blessed Padre Maximilian Kolbe, the Polish priest who perished in Auschwitz.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — "The Great American Dream Machine," seen weekly on public broadcasting stations, is hard to categorize. It has some elements of a revue, but it uses commentary, short documentaries, comedy and satire. And it is all tied together by a theme.

While it sounds like a complicated catch-all, it usually works out very well. The theme Wednesday night was the dreams of black Americans. The show's resident comedian, Marshall Efron, set the tone at the outset demonstrating the idiosyncrasy of a white man's status symbol: having heavily tanned skin in winter. Then followed an amusing feature showing techniques of a Manhattan barber specializing in Afro and modified Afro hair cuts.

A portion with special impact was the reading of three letters by "Soledad brother" George Jackson and dramatized by showing a brooding black man alone in a cell. The reading included a moving love letter addressed to "Dear Angela."

In sharp contrast, there was a snappy interview with a woman who has played the numbers game daily in New York for 20 years—and never won. She demonstrated how to pick lucky numbers each day—from a newspaper cartoon in her case. A numbers runner showed how he concealed his illegal records of numbers and customers—in his mouth, to be swallowed if stopped by authorities.

The windup was a rousing unity song. It was a bright, intelligent hour.

"This Week," seen early on the noncommercial network, is former presidential press secretary Bill Moyers' news analysis and interview show. The subject this week was the India-Pakistan conflict—the show tries to hit the biggest story of the period—and between the well-informed Moyers and his guest, economist John Kenneth Galbraith, a vast amount of information and opinion was pumped into the 30 minutes.

Julia Child, the brightest star created by the noncommercial sector of broadcasting, recently cooked and carved a turkey in such mouth-watering style she was imitated on Thanksgiving Day in hundreds of households. Wednesday night, in this viewer's area, Mrs. Child was turning out pates, claiming it was as easy as cooking hamburgers—and making it look about that easy.

Bumpers Unsure About Haley

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Dale Bumpers said Wednesday he had not decided whether to reappoint John Haley of Little Rock to the state Board of Correction when Haley's term expires Jan. 18.

Haley was the first appointee of then-Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller to a five-year term on the board. Haley is chairman of the board.

Disagreement on Shooting at the One Day Wonders

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — There was disagreement Wednesday over whether shooting at youthful first-time felony convicts in prison on one-day sentences became a practice under Correction Commissioner Terrell Don Hutto or Hutto's predecessor, C. Robert Sarver.

Garry Brewer, prison aide to Gov. Dale Bumpers, said the governor's office had been informed that shootings at such inmates began under Sarver.

Sarver, who was fired this year by Bumpers, promptly retorted that he knew of no such shootings while he was commissioner and that if any took place they violated prison policy.

"I'm not trying to place blame," Brewer said. "Regardless of when it started, it has stopped now, and will not occur again."

Brewer said he was not attempting to criticize Sarver. Sarver said he had never condoned the use of firearms "except when someone is under eminent attack to his person, or possibly in war, or possibly to prevent the escape of a convicted felon who is dangerous and poses a serious threat to society."

If any one-day inmates were shot at, "It darn sure shouldn't have happened," Sarver said. Last week in U.S. District Court at Little Rock, Joe Lewis, formerly a Cummins Prison Farm tower guard, testified that he had fired a shot near the feet of Willie E. Stewart, 17, of Little Rock.

Stewart, serving a one-day term for burglary in Faulkner County, died at the end of his day, Nov. 29. The state medical examiner attributes the death to a form of sickle cell anemia, a blood disease. Sarver conceded that one-day inmates were marked out for special hazing in the form of verbal abuse.

John Haley, chairman of the state Board of Correction, said that prison policy at the time was that a purely routine prison day was not what the one-day inmate would undergo.

He said the board policy did not actually sanction such activities, but that they took place in the course of dealing with one-day inmates in the institution.

"It is very likely that verbal abuse included threats of physical abuse," Haley said. "I'm not talking about board policy, but what I understand has evolved."

Haley said Sarver's successor, Terrell Don Hutto, had told him about the shootings and that they predated Hutto's arrival as commissioner.

The board chairman said the board was unaware of the shooting incidents. He said he had no way of knowing whether Sarver had any knowledge about the shooting incidents.

Concern about the one-day program has been expressed since the death Nov. 29, of Willie Stewart, 17, of Little Rock, at the end of his one-day sentence for burglary in Faulkner County.

The state medical examiner has attributed Stewart's death to a form of sickle cell anemia. Smith said Wednesday that he believed the one-day program, even with special hazing to intensify the first-offenders unfavorable impression of prison life, was worthwhile.

Smith, in reporting on his own one-day stay last March, mentioned in his article that one shot had been fired. He said in an interview Wednesday that actually two had been fired, both apparently by Boren.

Whether the shots were "at" him or only in his area, Smith said, was a question he could not answer.

"My back was turned both times," he said. "When I looked around, the gun was up in the air, that was the first time. The second time, I couldn't be sure who had fired, but I presumed that was Boren too."

Tells About a Faked Prison Experience

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A newspaperman who faked it as a "one-day wonder" at Cummins Prison Farm last March said Wednesday that Cecil Boren, an associate superintendent then and now at Cummins, said that shooting near one-day inmates was standard procedure.

George Smith, 26, of Mountain Home, reporter for the weekly Baxter Bulletin, entered the prison by arrangement with Correction Department facilities to undergo treatment given to youthful, first-time felony convicts on one-day sentences.

Smith said that two gunshots were fired near him during the day.

Smith also said: — That Boren told him that two apparent homosexual advances by two other inmates had been prearranged in his case and were part of the plan to bewilder, intimidate and confuse "one-day wonders."

— That he was forced to dig a hole six feet long, three feet wide and two feet deep after he had thrown a log on a fire, knocking soot on his superiors. Then he was forced to lie in the hole and was told he had just dug his grave.

— That Boren told him that, with the help of volunteer inmates and pants padding, strapings with the outlawed hide were faked in the presence of one-day inmates, one of whom fainted during such a display.

Smith said Wednesday that he believed the one-day program, even with special hazing to intensify the first-offenders unfavorable impression of prison life, was worthwhile.

There still has been no Soviet invitation to exploratory talks two months after NATO appointed former secretary-general Manlio Brosio of Italy to represent it. The communique is expected to remind Moscow that the alliance is still interested in mutual, balanced force reductions and is ready to start talking.

NATO Talks With Russia on Agenda

By CARL HARTMAN
Associated Press Writer
BRUSSELS (AP) — The foreign ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization opened their annual winter meeting today, with the proposed conference with the Soviets on security and cooperation in Europe at the top of their agenda.

The East-West parley Moscow wants seems unlikely before 1973. The Western powers have made plain they would not start to prepare for a meeting until the new Berlin agreements are firmly nailed down, but Moscow refuses to sign the supplementary Berlin agreements East and West Germany are now working out until West Germany ratifies its 1970 non-aggression pact with the Soviet Union.

The West German parliament is unlikely to complete this before next summer. If preparations for the security conference don't start until then, the conference probably could not begin until the next year.

Authoritative sources said the 15 NATO ministers in their usual conference communique Friday would strike an optimistic note on the situation in Germany and the idea of a conference with the Russians. But on the subject of mutual reduction of armed forces in Europe, they have less ground for optimism.

There still has been no Soviet invitation to exploratory talks two months after NATO appointed former secretary-general Manlio Brosio of Italy to represent it. The communique is expected to remind Moscow that the alliance is still interested in mutual, balanced force reductions and is ready to start talking.

PERSONAL FINANCE
By CARLTON SMITH
A woman wheeled her shopping cart up to the supermarket's checkout counter, unloaded $41.73 worth of groceries and presented a bank credit card. The clerk punched buttons on a device resembling a telephone, and a computer in a bank a few miles away transferred $41.73 to the supermarket's bank account.

Instant pay—just like cash in the register—except that no money was involved in the transaction. It's occurring hundreds of times a day in an experimental pay-by-computer system in Upper Arlington, Ohio, a suburb of Columbus—looking, maybe, toward the "cashless society" in which people will just press buttons, instead of taking your cash or your check in payment.

A similar experiment is under way in New York, on Long Island. Does it all mean that money is about to go out of style?

Not for quite a while, in the view of one authority on computerized banking. Dick Brandon, who heads Brandon Applied Systems in New York City, says the vision of a cashless, checkless future is "an awfully long way off."

On the other hand, he sees some significant movement in that direction within the next five years.

It will have to come, says Brandon, because our banking system is choking on checks. This year Americans will write 22 billion checks, and the system's strained. By 1980, unless we find another way to pay, the flood of checks will swell to 50 billion. At that point, says Brandon, we'll begin seeing "breakdowns in the system. errors, checks that don't get where they're going."

So you'd better get used to the idea of a substitute for money. Ideally, a computerized system would, at the punch of a button, make a double transfer of funds. Check out with $41.73 worth of groceries, and the computer would snatch that amount out of your bank balance and zip it over into the supermarket's account. Thus, you wouldn't even write a check at the end of the month to cover credit-card purchases.

But while merchants like this "instant transfer" at point of purchase, the buying public doesn't. In the Upper Arlington experiment in Ohio, consumers using their credit cards are on the traditional 25 day billing period.

stant debit is probably the biggest obstacle in the way of full computerization, says Brandon.

Beyond that, both checks and cash serve usefully in a number of ways that we wouldn't want totally abolished. And finally, there's no computer big enough to handle a nationwide instant-transfer system. What we'll see is a widening use of the localized credit card systems, with the card substituting for cash in many more purchase transactions, along the lines of the pilot run in Ohio.

How soon?

"Enough of a change within the next five years that we'll begin to notice a difference," Brandon predicts, "and a significant change by 1980."

SO YOU WANT TO BE

By ERNIE HOOD

Sterling J. Denver, Colo., asks: "What are the chances for pilots and copilots in commercial aviation?"

Dear Sterling: You might say "as high as the sky."

Bureau of Labor Statistics projections show tremendous growth ahead in this career field—something like 116.9 per cent growth for the period ending in 1980.

There are approximately 52,000 pilots and copilots at this writing, and there will be an estimated 114,000 as the decade ends.

Openings will total about 1,800 each year — 1,100 through growth and 700 through replacements.

You should keep in mind that all pilots must be licensed by the Federal Aviation Agency. Copilots and most pilots employed in general aviation must have "commercial airplane pilots" license. An "instrument rating" also is often required.

To qualify for a commercial airplane pilot's license or an instrument rating, applicants must be at least 18 years of age and have 200 hours of flight experience. All captains must have an "airplane transport pilot's" license. Applicants for this license must be at least 23 years old and have 1,200 hours of flight time, including night flying and instrument flying time. Training may be obtained from a private flight school, airline flight school or through military service.

Francine D., Springfield, Mass.; Beth D., Seattle, Wash., and a great many other girls across the country also inquire about careers as airline stewardesses.

Applicants must have a high school education, and those having two years of college, nurses' training or experience in dealing with the public are preferred. Most large airlines train their own stewardesses, but a few that do not operate their own schools may hire graduates that have been trained at private stewardesses' schools.

There are about 25,000 stewardesses present-day, and projected requirements by 1980 total 65,000 for a tremendous growth rate of 150.7 per cent.

They feed on the sin of my people; they are greedy for their iniquity. And it shall be like people, like priest; I will punish them for their ways, and requite them for their deeds.—Hosea 4:8, 9

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

Everyone Dreams, Some Don't Know It

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—For the past year I have had dreams every night, different ones, but every night. I am 61 years old, have high blood pressure, but take medication for the pressure. Is there any medical or psychological reason for these dreams? Can you explain them, please?

Dear Reader—It is normal to dream. Even people who claim they do not dream just are not aware of it.

If by dreaming you are referring to nightmares it may well be caused by the medicine you are taking for your high blood pressure. Rauwolfia, reserpine, or serapasil—all essentially the same medicine—and a number of medicines used in the treatment of high blood pressure that contain these drugs, are known to cause nightmares. These medicines are important in some cases of high blood pressure but we know that they have undesirable side effects, such as nightmares.

You should be sure to tell your doctor about this because he will be watching you carefully to be certain you don't develop toxic reactions to any medicine he may be giving you for high blood pressure. These drugs have a powerful effect on the mind, and some people are more sensitive to them than others.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I read your column every day and certainly appreciate it. Would you please explain an ulcer on the bottom of the foot (underneath the large toe) that will not heal?

My father is 71 years old and has an enlarged heart. Six months ago he had this sore on his foot and had it opened up. He has it treated every week and has a fresh bandage on it. It doesn't seem to heal at all. Could this be arteriosclerosis? If so do you think it can be cured?

Dear Reader—Your idea that your father has arteriosclerosis is probably right. American men in his age group usually have significant amounts of fatty deposits in the arteries, which have often calcified.

The most likely cause of your father's enlarged heart is arteriosclerosis, too. If the arteries in the leg or foot are affected with a considerable amount of disease, wounds, sores or ulcers do not heal easily, if at all. The big toe is the most distant point from the flow of blood from the heart in the entire body and is especially prone to develop an ulcer on the basis of poor circulation. It is possible that the ulcer might heal eventually, but if it does it will be a slow process.

Sometimes wounds heal faster if the patient takes vitamin C, about 500 milligrams a day is sufficient for this purpose. In these amounts it can't do any harm so you might try it, but don't expect miracles.

Opening lead—♠ J

By Oswald & James Jacoby

"Curiouser and curiouser," thought Alice. "I keep getting better hands all the time. Maybe there aren't any bad hands for me in Wonderland."

Alice decided to open one diamond rather than two no-trump. She was sure there would be further bidding. No one plays one bids in Wonderland. Alice lost no time getting to seven no-trump, after finding her partner held all the missing aces and kings.

Alice could only count 12 top tricks, but she was sure that the 13th would develop.

She won the spade lead and ran off four clubs to discard a diamond from dummy. Then she cashed the last two top spades and noted that East showed out on the second one. Three rounds of hearts came next and Alice was in a dummy which now consisted of a low spade, heart and diamond, while she held ace-king-eight of diamonds.

West had to hold on to a top spade and East to a top heart. Neither could hold three diamonds and Alice claimed the grand slam.

The red queen who sat East pointed at her partner and yelled "Off with his head! He should have led a diamond!"

The queen was correct. A diamond lead would break up the final squeeze, but we agree with Alice that the remedy was rather drastic.

The First of the Chou — the Last of the Shang

A country where uniformity of purpose has been established for one year will be strong for 10 years; a country where it has been established for 100 years, it will be strong for 1,000 years; and a country that has been strong for 1,000 years will attain supremacy.

Book of Lord Shang

The civilization that was to become China had its beginnings in the cradle of the Yellow River. While no archeological proof exists for China's first dynasty, the Hsia, a legendary golden age ruled by sage-kings, the remains of the next dynasty, the Shang, indicate there must have been many centuries of previous development.

Shang skill in working bronze has never been surpassed. Pottery making was of a high order. Writing on shells and oracle bones was in an advanced script, showing many of the basic forms of modern Chinese.

Inscriptions found on Shang tombs, excavated only in the 20th century, give an insight into the way of life of a people who flourished nearly 10 centuries ago.

The king was both king and priest, intermediary between the people and Heaven, represented by Shang Ti, the Supreme Lord. The king, as Son of Heaven, led the rituals and sacrifices which insured that the behavior of men on earth was attuned to the rhythm, the "Yang and Yin"—of the celestial order. Priests divined the will of Heaven by interpreting the cracks in the heated bones of animals.

Worship of ancestors was already a strong element in Chinese religion. Sacrifices—sometimes human—were made to them and to other potent spirits of nature to insure success in mortal undertakings.

Below and around the king were nobles, who lived in luxury and served as governmental functionaries. Below them were the ignorant and toiling peasants, upon whose bent backs the entire structure of Shang—as of later—society rested.

There was as yet no nation that could be called China (or as the Chinese know it, the Middle Kingdom). The authority of the Shang was limited and challenged by rival city-states and shaken by frequent wars.

As was to happen again and again in Chinese history, the ruling dynasty fell into decadence and was overthrown. After six centuries, in 1122 B.C., the Shang succumbed in violent upheaval to the warlike Chou clan from the western frontiers.

Now began the third dynasty, the Chou, which was to enjoy the longest reign—900 years—in China's long history.

Afro, Latins Seek Middle East Peace

By WILLIAM N. OATIS
Associated Press Writer
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — African and Latin American delegates to the U.N. General Assembly worked today on resolutions calling for Gunnar Jarring to resume his efforts to negotiate a peace agreement between Israel and the Arabs.

A preliminary African draft requested Secretary-General U Thant to put his special envoy for the Middle East back to work "with a view to encouraging indirect negotiations ... to bring about the conclusion of a peace treaty."

The draft accepted Egypt's interpretation that the 1967 Security Council resolution outlining principles for a Middle East settlement called for Israeli withdrawal from all territory occupied in the June war, not just some of it as Israel contends.

But the draft leaned toward Israel in calling for a peace treaty, a term Egypt dislikes, and in making no mention of Jarring's go-between efforts in February. During the latter Egypt accepted—and Israel rejected—the mediator's proposal that Egypt promise to enter into a peace agreement if Israel would promise to withdraw from occupied Egyptian territory.

Informed sources said the African group reorganized its drafting committee Wednesday night to include Egypt on it and asked for a new draft. The sources reported much argument over the first draft.

Latin American sources said their group had been trying for weeks to work out a Middle East resolution and had produced drafts calling for new talks without prior conditions. Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban told the Assembly Monday that his government would participate in new indirect negotiations only if there were no such conditions.

Egyptian Ambassador Mohammed El-Zayyat told the assembly Wednesday night that his government informed the recent African peace mission that visited Egypt and Israel that it is ready for new indirect negotiations for the implementation of both the Security Council resolution and of Jarring's February proposal.

He said the Egyptian government also told the four African chiefs of state it agreed secure and recognized boundaries should be worked out for Israel provided Israel gave a positive response to Jarring's proposal. But Eban had said on Monday that such a response would amount to a prior condition, and this was not acceptable.

El-Zayyat said by taking that position, Israel was "precluding the peaceful alternative to the exercise of (Egypt's) inherent right of self defense."

"Israel must provide the Arabs with a peaceful alternative to the resort to force," he declared.

No Pressure on Delegates, Bumpers Says

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Dale Bumpers said Wednesday he was under no pressure to call for the adoption of the convention method of selecting Arkansas' delegates to the Democratic National Convention next year.

When asked by newsmen about speculation that Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., might prefer the convention method, Bumpers told newsmen that neither Mills nor any of his supporters had "requested me to do anything in regard to the convention delegation."

Under a new Arkansas law, 80 per cent of the delegates are to be selected by popular vote next year, and the Democratic State Committee has adopted a rule authorizing the popularly elected delegates to name the remaining 20 per cent of the delegates.

"The law is on the books and that's what we'll try to live by," Bumpers said.

The governor has said he believes the convention method would benefit Mills if the congressman is a presidential candidate next year, by assuring an Arkansas delegation united behind Mills.

GOP Secretary May Turn in Resignation

By JIM McCALL
Associated Press Writer

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Neal Sox Johnson says he is considering resigning as executive secretary of the state Republican party.

Other sources said Wednesday that they understood Johnson would resign and be succeeded by Len Blaylock, former state welfare commissioners. The sources said Johnson would be appointed to a federal job.

Johnson confirmed in an interview that he had talked with Blaylock, state GOP chairman Charles T. Bernard of Earle and former Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller about the possibility.

"Let me make it clear that this thing has not been totally consummated," Johnson said. "We've just been discussing it." Blaylock, who served as welfare commissioner under Rockefeller, resigned this year to accept a position as the regional representative for the Federal Welfare Reform Program in Dallas.

"Len has indicated that he wants to come back to Arkansas to work and we discussed the possibility of him taking over my job if I could get a federal position," Johnson said. Johnson said he had not been offered a federal position and that he had not applied for one.

"Gov. Rockefeller has made an inquiry in Washington and that's about the extent of it," Johnson said. "If there is a position in federal government available to me, however, I certainly would accept it."

When asked what type of federal job he might be in line for Johnson said he felt he would be qualified for a position with the Housing and Urban Development program. He said he had experience in the construction, and planning fields.

Johnson asserted that he was "perfectly satisfied" with his present job but would rather have a position in federal government.

"This job has been a tremendous challenge — there have been frustrating moments — but I am not dissatisfied with the work at all," Johnson said.

He said that he hesitated to resign at the present time because of upcoming elections in 1972.

"We are really torn over what to do right now and I feel that it probably would be wise not to make a change until after the '72 elections," Johnson said.

This Beef Loaf Hits The Spot

GOOD BEEF LOAF — It may be shaped into a round and garnished with wagon-wheel macaroni.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

If you're tired of the recipe for beef loaf that you've been using, or dissatisfied with it, consider trying this one. It makes a loaf that is moist, cuts well into wedges and has fine flavor.

A small can of stewed tomatoes is used in the loaf to give moisture and seasoning and soft bread crumbs help to give good texture. Our tasters' comment on the loaf was, "Make it again!"

GOOD BEEF LOAF

1 egg
1 can (8 1/4 ounces) stewed tomatoes
1 1/2 cups soft bread crumbs
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
2 tablespoons minced scallion (green onion) or 1 tablespoon finely grated onion (pulp and juice)
2 tablespoons minced parsley
1/4 teaspoon dried Italian herb seasoning

1 1/2 pounds ground lean beef
In a medium mixing bowl beat egg just enough to combine yolk and white. Add tomatoes (including liquid in can), with a fork thoroughly break up the tomatoes. Add bread crumbs, salt, scallion, parsley and herb seasoning. Let stand until bread absorbs some of the liquid — 10 minutes or longer, with a fork, beat well. Add beef, mix well with your fingers until blended.

Oil a shallow baking pan or line pan with foil and grease foil. Turn meat mixture into center of the pan and shape into a round loaf about 7 inches in diameter and 1 1/2 inches deep. Bake in a preheated 400-degree oven for 40 minutes. With 2 wide spatulas remove loaf to serving plate. Garnish, if you like, with wagon-wheel macaroni mixed with butter and grated Parmesan cheese. Serve remaining macaroni with beef loaf.

Makes 6 servings.
Note: When you make the soft bread crumbs for the beef loaf you can do so by cutting sliced bread fine with a knife; crusts may be left on.

CHOCOLATE DOUBLE DELIGHTS

1 1/2 cups packed brown sugar

1/2 cup butter

2 tablespoons water

1 package (2 cups) semisweet chocolate morsels

2 eggs

3 cups sifted all-purpose flour

1 1/4 teaspoons baking soda

1 teaspoon salt

Peppermint Cream Filling*

Combine sugar and butter in saucepan; place over moderate heat, stirring constantly until butter is melted. Remove from heat. Stir in water. Add semisweet chocolate morsels and stir until melted. Beat in eggs. Sift together remaining ingredients and gradually add to chocolate mixture, stirring after each addition. Drop by heaping teaspoonfuls onto greased cookie sheet. Bake in 350-degree oven, 8 to 10 minutes. Cool. Sandwich each pair of cookies together with 1 rounded teaspoonful of Peppermint Cream Filling. Makes about 4 dozen filled cookies.

Peppermint Cream Filling

3 cups sifted confectioners' sugar, divided

1/4 cup soft butter

1/4 teaspoon salt

1/4 teaspoon peppermint extract

1/4 cup milk or light cream

Combine 1 cup of the sugar, butter, salt and peppermint extract, beat until light and fluffy. Blend in remaining sugar alternately with milk. Makes enough for 4 dozen filled cookies.

SHOWBEAT

Hackman Makes Good 'Connection'

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — "The French Connection" is a wild and wonderful film. It may win some awards but what's more important is it will make millions and give a whole lot of people a couple of hours of splendid escape entertainment.

If they give Oscars for chases, they'll have to make "The French Connection" a winner. There's a chase in which Gene Hackman, as a New York detective named Popeye Doyle, commandeers a car and goes zipping along following a gunman who is overhead in an elevated train.

"The French Connection" is based on a true story, but the chase wasn't part of the real thing. Producer Philip D'Antoni stuck it in for good luck — and good entertainment.

"The real life chase," D'Antoni says, "was only about two blocks long. But I'd had so much success with the chase scene in my first movie — 'Bullitt' — that I enlarged it. I wrote it in and plotted it very carefully."

"That chase was done under what Hollywood calls 'controlled' conditions, meaning all the vehicles you see are driven by stuntmen and the police have blocked off all other traffic. Bill Hickman, the second unit director and stunt coordinator, was in charge.

It was done on 86th Street, near Coney Island, in Brooklyn. Hickman says that Hackman (be sure to keep your Hickmans and Hackmans straight) did 85 per cent of his own driving. "He's an old race driver, and I taught him a few things and he caught on real quick," Hickman says. "Gene is a real cool driver."

Hickman says they cracked up $15,600 worth of cars in the chase scene. The chief vehicle was a specially built Pontiac LeMans.

"I did the driving," Hackman says, "or as much as I could, because I felt it made it look more real. The funny thing was that the big crash scene was a mistake. It happened on the first day. Bill Hickman was driving the other car, and we crashed."

"D'Antoni and director Billy Friedkin decided to leave the scene in. But we had no coverage — there was only one camera going at the time. So we had to re-stage it, do it all over again."

D'Antoni says all the rest of the on-street stuff was shot without any controls. He says the principals walked or ran around New York and Brooklyn streets, with the cameras hidden, either in trucks or in second-story windows.

The story deals with the drug ring-busting work of two real New York cops, Eddie Egan (changed to Popeye Doyle for the film) and Sonny Grosso. Both Egan and Grosso worked on the film and appeared in it. Grosso has since done other acting — he's in "The Godfather" — and he likes acting but isn't about to give up police work. (Egan is currently involved in another narcotics case; he has been charged with holding back drugs he obtained on police raids.)

When they were casting the picture, D'Antoni let Egan and Grosso look over the prospective actors.

"I just couldn't see Hackman playing Egan's part," Grosso says. "At least, not at first. The first time I met him, he was in bell-bottoms, a lovely shirt, a mustache, lovely hair. He was gorgeous. But I came around and he did a helluva job."

In fact, Grosso's mother saw the picture and got very angry. She thought Hackman looked so authentic he must be a cop, and she was mad about it — she figured if they were going to let a real cop play the part, they should have given it to Egan.

Everybody's glad now they stuck with Hackman. He's sure to get an Oscar nomination and, the way it looks now, the voting should go down to the wire between him and Topol for "Fiddler on the Roof."

This Bread Pudding Is Elegant

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
DEAR CECILY: My Grandmother used to make a delicious dessert called Queen of Bread Puddings. It had a topping of jam and meringue. I can't find a recipe for this pudding. Do you have one? — NOSTALGIC COOK.

DEAR NOSTALGIC COOK: Queen of Bread Puddings is indeed an old-fashioned delight that should not be neglected. Here is an up-dated recipe for it. It may be served warm or cold, when we did our taste-testing we found it equally good both ways. The strawberry preserves and the meringue really make this dessert outstanding — good enough for company. — C.B.

QUEEN OF BREAD PUDDINGS

2 cups milk
1/4 cup (1/2 of a 1/4-pound stick) butter
3 slices (about 1/2 inch) firm-type bread
2 large eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/4 cup sugar
1/2 cup strawberry preserves

In a 1-quart saucepan, heat milk and butter just until butter is melted, set aside to cool slightly.

Without removing crusts, tear bread into ragged dime-size crumbs to make 2 cups. Place crumbs over bottom of a 1-quart round glass casserole (6 1/2 by 2 1/2 inches) or similar utensil.

Separate eggs, putting yolks into a small mixing bowl and whites into another small mixing bowl.

Beat yolks until thickened, add lemon colored. Slowly stir in 2 cups of the milk-butter mixture, then stir back into remaining milk-butter mixture. Stir in vanilla. Pour over crumbs in casserole. Place casserole in a square cake pan (8 by 8 by 2 inches). Add 3 cups hot tap water to the pan — water should be about 1 1/4 inches deep. Bake in a preheated 325-degree oven until a knife inserted halfway between center and edge comes out clean — 50 to 60 minutes. Remove from oven (leave oven turned on) but do not remove casserole from water.

OLD-TIME TREAT — Bread pudding rises to new heights when it's given a luscious topping of strawberry preserves and meringue.

Beat egg whites until foamy. Beat in sugar. 1 tablespoon at a time, continue to beat until meringue stands in stiff straight peaks when beater is slowly withdrawn.

Spread strawberry preserves over pudding. Spoon meringue over preserves. Return pudding, without removing it from water, to 325 degree oven and continue baking until meringue is lightly browned — 10 to 12 minutes. Serve warm or chilled. Makes 6 servings.

The World's Biggest Toy

is what some call a huge polyethylene bag added to the California landscape near Sausalito by architectural design students. Also known as the "space pillow"—maybe because it looks like nothing else on earth—its purpose is experimentation with new design ideas. But it also is a lot of fun. Below, collapsed bag is laid out for inflating by fan to 50-foot length, below left. Small ventilation holes control air escape, preventing rapid collapse. Bottom, class comes to order inside.

SHOWBEAT

Hackman Makes Good 'Connection'

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — "The French Connection" is a wild and wonderful film. It may win some awards but what's more important is it will make millions and give a whole lot of people a couple of hours of splendid escape entertainment.

If they give Oscars for chases, they'll have to make "The French Connection" a winner. There's a chase in which Gene Hackman, as a New York detective named Popeye Doyle, commandeers a car and goes zipping along following a gunman who is overhead in an elevated train.

"The French Connection" is based on a true story, but the chase wasn't part of the real thing. Producer Philip D'Antoni stuck it in for good luck — and good entertainment.

"The real life chase," D'Antoni says, "was only about two blocks long. But I'd had so much success with the chase scene in my first movie—'Bullitt'—that I enlarged it. I wrote it in and plotted it very carefully."

That chase was done under what Hollywood calls "controlled" conditions, meaning all the vehicles you see are driven by stuntmen and the police have blocked off all other traffic. Bill Hickman, the second unit director and stunt coordinator, was in charge.

It was done on 86th Street, near Coney Island, in Brooklyn. Hickman says that Hackman (be sure to keep your Hickmans and Hackmans straight) did 85 per cent of his own driving. "He's an old race driver, and I taught him a few things and he caught on real quick," Hickman says. "Gene is a real cool driver."

Hickman says they cracked up $15,600 worth of cars in the chase scene. The chief vehicle was a specially built Pontiac LeMans.

"I did the driving," Hackman says, "or as much as I could, because I felt it made it look more real. The funny thing was that the big crash scene was a mistake."

It happened on the first day. Bill Hickman was driving the other car, and we crashed.

"D'Antoni and director Billy Friedkin decided to leave the scene in. But we had no coverage—there was only one camera going at the time. So we had to re-stage it, do it all over again."

D'Antoni says all the rest of the on-street stuff was shot without any controls. He says the principals walked or ran around New York and Brooklyn streets, with the cameras hidden, either in trucks or in second-story windows.

The story deals with the drug ring-busting work of two real New York cops, Eddie Egan (changed to Popeye Doyle for the film) and Sonny Grosso. Both Egan and Grosso worked on the film and appeared in it. Grosso has since done other acting—he's in "The Godfather"—and he says he likes acting but isn't about to give up police work. (Egan is currently involved in another narcotics case; he has been charged with holding back drugs he obtained on police raids.)

When they were casting the picture, D'Antoni let Egan and Grosso look over the prospective actors.

"I just couldn't see Hackman playing Egan's part," Grosso says. "At least, not at first. The first time I met him, he was in bell-bottoms, a lovely shirt, a mustache, lovely hair. He was gorgeous. But I came around and he did a helluva job."

In fact, Grosso's mother saw the picture and got very angry. She thought Hackman looked so authentic he must be a cop, and she was mad about it—she figured if they were going to let a real cop play the part, they should have given it to Egan.

Everybody's glad now they stuck with Hackman. He's sure to get an Oscar nomination and, the way it looks now, the voting should go down to the wire between him and Topol for "Fiddler on the Roof."

This Bread Pudding Is Elegant

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
DEAR CECILY: My Grandmother used to make a delicious dessert called Queen of Bread Puddings. It had a topping of jam and meringue. I can't find a recipe for this pudding. Do you have one? — NOSTALGIC COOK.

DEAR NOSTALGIC COOK: Queen of Bread Puddings is indeed an old-fashioned delight that should not be neglected. Here is an up-dated recipe for it. It may be served warm or cold, when we did our taste-testing we found it equally good both ways. The strawberry preserves and the meringue really make this dessert outstanding — good enough for company. — C. B.

QUEEN OF BREAD PUDDINGS

2 cups milk
1/4 cup (1/2 of a 1/4-pound stick) butter
3 slices (about 1) firm-type bread
2 large eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/4 cup sugar
1/2 cup strawberry preserves
In a 1-quart saucepan, heat milk and butter just until butter is melted, set aside to cool slightly.

Without removing crusts, tear bread into ragged dime-size crumbs to make 2 cups. Place crumbs over bottom of a 1-quart round glass casserole (6 1/2 by 2 1/2 inches) or similar utensil.

Separate eggs, putting yolks into a small mixing bowl and whites into another small mixing bowl.

Beat yolks until thickened and lemon colored. Slowly stir in 1/2 cup of the milk/butter mixture, then stir back into remaining milk-butter mixture. Stir in vanilla. Pour over crumbs in casserole. Place casserole in a square cake pan (8 by 8 by 2 inches). Add 3 cups hot tap water to the pan — water should be about 1 1/4 inches deep. Bake in a preheated 325-degree oven until a knife inserted halfway between center and edge comes out clean — 50 to 60 minutes. Remove from oven (leave oven turned on) but do not remove casserole from water.

OLD-TIME TREAT — Bread pudding rises to new heights when it's given a luscious topping of strawberry preserves and meringue.

Beat egg whites until foamy. Beat in sugar. 1 tablespoon at a time, continue to beat until meringue stands in stiff straight peaks when beater is slowly withdrawn.

Spread strawberry preserves over pudding. Spoon meringue over preserves. Return pudding, without removing it from water, to 325-degree oven and continue baking until meringue is lightly browned — 10 to 12 minutes. Serve warm or chilled.

The World's Biggest Toy

is what some call a huge polyethylene bag added to the California landscape near Sausalito by architectural design students. Also known as the "space pillow"—maybe because it looks like nothing else on earth—its purpose is experimentation with new design ideas. But it also is a lot of fun. Below, collapsed bag is laid out for inflating by fan to 50-foot length, below left. Small ventilation holes control air escape, preventing rapid collapse. Bottom, class comes to order inside.
